Why add Selenium and Vitamin D_3?

Some experts recommend supplementation in patients with lymphedema and lipedema who are deficient in Selenium and Vitamin D3 for their anti-inflammatory properties.*

What Is MPFF And Why Is It Important?

MPFF is micronized purified flavonoid fraction. This combination of flavonoids includes disomin, hesperidin, and other important bioflavonoids. Flavonoids exist naturally in the rind of citrus fruits. Many scientific and clinical research studies conducted over the last several decades, indicate that these compounds have health benefits in people with chronic venous disease. In fact, there is a significant scientific agreement about the role MPFF plays in patients with certain vein problems. Numerous well respected medical societies, represented by key opinion leaders and educators in the field of venous and lymphatic medicine have included MPFF in their guidelines for the treatment of varicose veins, venous edema, and leg ulcers when used in conjunction with compression therapy. *

What is Lymphatic Formula 1000?

Lymphatic Formula 1000 is a dietary supplement formulated and packaged in the USA in an FDA registered facility. It contains 1000mg of micronized purified flavonoid fraction (MPFF), Selenium and Vitamin D3. MPFF is a combination of bioflavonoids that include diosmin, hesperidin, and several other active flavonoids. In nature, flavonoids are found in the rind of citrus fruits. As compared to many other inferior products on the market, the flavonoids in Lymphatic Formula 1000 are micronized for optimal absorption and effectiveness. Micronization is a costly and highly advanced manufacturing process, but we at VitasupportMD spare no expense in providing our customers with the best possible dietary supplements.*
